INTRODUCTION.

This classification of diseases and injuries has been prepared primarily for use in the compilation of mortality statistics in connection with the administration of the "Unemployment and Sickness Benefits Act" of the Commonwealth of Australia.

This Act provides, inter alia, for the payment of benefit to persons whose normal earnings have been interrupted through temporary incapacity. The grant of sickness benefit is dependent upon the production of evidence (usually a certificate from a legally qualified medical practitioner) that the claimant is temporarily incapacitated from work. A claimant qualified to receive an invalid (permanent) incapacity, old-age, service or widow's pension is not eligible for sickness benefit.

The medical certificate (or other evidence) will serve as the basis of classification.

The introduction of this legislation provides the first opportunity, in this country, of collecting morbidity statistics which cover a large and representative section of the working community. The health of the nation is of vital importance and in the field of medical research it is essential to have a reliable background of statistics on which to work. It is confidently hoped that this classification will provide such a background.

The classification has been designed to provide direct comparability with mortality statistics which are well established on an international basis.

As this venture into the field of morbidity statistics is a breaking of new ground, alterations to the classification may become necessary in the light of experience gained after the project has had a practical trial. It is hoped that any errors, omissions or inconsistencies observed will be reported.

Explanatory Notes

CLASSIFICATION OF DISEASES AND INJURIES

System of Classification.

This four figure code classification is built upon the same framework as the International List of Causes of Death (Fifth Revision, 1925), with certain necessary exceptions - the most important being that injuries are classified in considerable detail according to the kind of injury, no distinct from its cause (a supplementary two-figure code being provided to indicate the external cause of the injury; in addition the fourth figure of the main code being used to indicate whether the injury occurred during the course of treatment or otherwise), and more subdivision is allowed for minor ailments which rarely cause death. The National Council's "Provisional Classification of Diseases and Injuries for Use in Compiling Mortality Statistics" has been freely drawn upon for the classification of injuries and the more detailed classification of minor ailments.

The index has been compiled from the Manual of the International List of Causes of Death (as adopted for use in the United States) with additions and alterations made necessary by the different basis of classification of injuries and by the greater subdivision of minor ailments.

Rules of Coding.

The condition to be coded is the principal disease or injury on account of which the patient sought treatment. A complication of the principal disease or injury which arises or becomes manifest after admission to treatment is not to be taken into account. A disease or injury independent of the principal one is not to be taken into account even though it may later become the more serious condition.

A. First decide whether the individual sought treatment

- (1) on account of disease or symptoms of illness, including normal pregnancy and child bearing.
- (2) on account of injury or acute poisoning or a disability immediately resulting from these.
- (3) on a health source requiring eradication, preventive treatment, etc.

If the patient had both injury and disease, decide which of these caused him to come for treatment, if the two were unrelated; if one resulted from the other, select the first cause; if in doubt, select the one mentioned first in the record.

The following are to be classified as diseases and not as injuries:-

Deformity due to an old injury (see code 1300)
 Tetanus } Following a slight injury such as Dysentery } a scratch
 Septicemia }
 Injury caused by an epileptic (see code 0800) or apoplectic (see code 0435) fit.
 Chronic poisoning (see codes 0900 to 0999)
 Shock following ordinary exertion (see code 0900) Pneumonia following accidental immersion (see code 0900)
 Abortion or attempted abortion, induced or accidental
 (see codes 1100, 1105, 1110, 1115)
 Trauma in childbirth (see code 1170)

B. Having determined the reason why the patient sought treatment, refer to the index in order to find the code number. The term listed as is in immediate proximity. The expression "not otherwise defined" or "without further qualification" may be considered as implied in such instances. The names of organs or parts of the body and also of diseases are shown with the adjectival form in parenthesis, as "Abscess (abscessive)", "Heart (cardiac)", "Kidney (renal)", "Tuberculous (tuberculous)". In each case, the proper form of the word, i.e., the substantive or the adjectival form, should be read with the indicated list of words following, in order to identify the expression reported. Thus, under the heading "Tuberculous (tuberculous)", the term "lung" should be read "Tuberculosis of lung", while the term "mediastinal" should be read "Tuberculosis mediastinal". In each instance it will be found convenient to refer to the adjectival form of the disease for general index classification. Thus "Abscess of the liver" should be sought under "Abscess" rather than under "Abscessive" or "Liver".

Reference to the Index should determine the code in most cases where one disease (or injury) only is mentioned (for procedure where more than one disease (or injury) is mentioned see further instructions below, Rules C. and D.).

Those cases where the disease (or injury) is not specified in the index must be referred to the officer-in-charge for a ruling. This is essential as a supplementary index will be compiled to incorporate these rulings.

G. If treatment was sought on account of a lesion (or symptom not due to injury) (orders CO-17) refer to the index as directed in B. above.

If any other disease is mentioned, collect the most important condition which caused admission to treatment, by the aid of rules (1) to (vii) below, and then refer to the index for the code for this condition.

Index of selection when any other disease is present

- (i) Reject the following if in combination with a more definite disease-

 (Childbirth .. 1165
 Peripartur infection with diseases of parametrium 1180-1190

- (iii) Diseases which are both components of a compound pathologic term are to be classified to the code number to which that term is assigned (e.g., gastritis with enteritis to 0320 - gastro-enteritis).
- (iv) Tuberculosis of two or more organs is to be classified to a code number between 0000 to 0009 if the lungs are involved but to a code number between 0010 to 0019 if there is no mention of the lungs.
- (v) If one disease is frequently an immediate complication of the other, or if one disease is stated to have resulted from the other, the classification is to the primary disease, subject to rules (ii) and (iii) above, (e.g., appendicitis with peritonitis to 0082 - appendicitis).
- (vi) Report any conditions appearing after admission to treatment.
- (vii) If the above rules do not decide which of two diseases is to be coded as the principal one, select the one occurring first in the following order of precedence (or if both fall within a single category, select the disease mentioned first, (e.g., whooping cough and scarlet fever to 0085):-

Infective diseases in 0000-0009, 0040-0049, 0060, 0050-0059, 0080-0089, 0070, 0090-0099, 1100-1109, 1150-1159;

 Diseases of respiratory system, 0000-0000;
 Other local diseases (throughout the list);
 Functional disorders.

D. If treatment was sought by a health person requiring examination, preventive treatment, etc., the classification must be to one or other of the codes 1900-1919, whichever is applicable.

E. If treatment was sought on account of injury or trauma (orders 20-29), refer to the index as outlined in D. above to determine the first three figures of the code. (The term "traumatic" is used throughout the index to indicate "caused by an injury or wound".) The fourth figure of the code is to be used to indicate whether the injury, etc., is "occupational", i.e., occurring during the course of employment (including whilst travelling to and from work), or otherwise. Code 1 when the injury is stated as "occupational", and 0 in all other cases.

If more than one injury, or an injury with poisoning, is mentioned, select for coding the highest which is appropriate in the following order of preference:-

Asphyxiation or immersion	.. 390x, 391x
Acute poisoning by gas or other agent	.. 280x-289x, 2700-2790
Traumatic amputations	.. 250x-259x

Burns and scalds	.. 290x-299x
Other effects	.. rest of orders 20-29

A supplementary two figure code is provided to indicate the external cause of the injury or poisoning.

F. If treatment was sought on account of complications of traumatic fractures or surgical operations, (orders 40-49) the classification should be to the original disability. Orders 40-49 should be used only when the original disability is not stated.

 Poison (see Poisoning)

Poisoning

All internal poisoning, intoxication, or toxicosis, is divided, for purposes of statistical classification, into two general groups:-

A. Poisoning from poisons produced within the body

When due to a definite disease, the condition should be classified in the same manner as such disease is

2 Code 1 if occupational, 0 if non-occupational (including unspecified)
